UAE pledges $100 million to support Sudanese people at Paris conference

The UAE called for a return to the political process in Sudan, and affirmed the importance of global and regional collaboration to advance endeavours towards permanent truce

Sheikh Shakhboot bin Nahyan Al Nahyan, UAE's Minister of State, during a meeting at International Humanitarian Conference for Sudan in Paris on Wednesday —WAM

PARIS / WAM

Sheikh Shakhboot bin Nahyan Al Nahyan, Minister of State, participated in meetings during the International Humanitarian Conference for Sudan, held in Paris, which was co-organised by France, Germany and the European Union (EU).

The conference was attended by several countries as well as international and regional organisations aiming to further advance peace initiatives in Sudan.

During the conference, Sheikh Shakhboot affirmed the UAE's commitment to support international endeavours aimed at achieving a permanent and immediate ceasefire, finding a peaceful solution to the crisis, and continuing to provide aid to the Sudanese people.

In this regard, the UAE pledged $100 million to support humanitarian efforts in Sudan and its neighbouring countries.

The high-level meetings addressed initiatives aiming to establish peace in Sudan, and ways to strengthen them. The meetings culminated in the adoption of a document outlining the principles that support resolving the conflict, which has been ongoing since April 2023, in addition to reinforcing humanitarian and diplomatic efforts to address the challenges faced by the Sudanese people.

In a speech, Sheikh Shakhboot bin Nahyan commended the extensive efforts of the UAE which aim to put an end to the crisis that has inflicted severe suffering on the Sudanese people. The UAE also called for a return to the political process in Sudan, and affirmed the importance of international and regional collaboration to advance endeavours towards achieving an immediate and permanent ceasefire, and ensuring the unhindered delivery of humanitarian aid.

Sheikh Shakhboot emphasised the UAE's efforts and the tangible initiatives the country has provided to mitigate the severity of the humanitarian conditions in Sudan and neighbouring countries, as the total amount of relief aid provided to those affected by the conflict has reached $150 million, including medical, food and relief supplies.
