During the call. His Excellency Vladimir Putin expressed his appreciation to His Highness for the successful mediation efforts undertaken by the UAE in recent months to facilitate the exchange of prisoners between Russia and Ukraine-the most recent of which took place earlier this March. His Highness, in turn, thanked the Russian government for its cooperation with the UAE in this regard in playing a vital role in the success of the initiative. ABU DHABI / WAM

Abu Dhabi Commercial Bank (ADCB) has achieved an upgrade in its long-term issuer credit rating to 'A+' from 'A' with a 'stable' outlook by S&P Global Ratings driven by the bank's strong financial position and high asset quality. The upgrade places ADCB among the top three highest rated banks by S&P in the MENA region.

ADCB's strong market position has driven significant balance sheet expansion, with assets increasing 59% since the end of 2020 to surpass AED 650 billion in 2024. Net loans have expanded at 10% CAGR, accompanied by a strategic rebalancing of the

ADNOC Gas' strategic update outlined investments of $15 billion in growth opportunities designed to meet the escalating global demand for natural gas and drive a projected 40 percent increase in EBITDA by 2029 from a 2023 baseline

Dr Sultan Ahmed Al Jaber, Chairman of ADNOC Gas' Board of Directors, commented, "In 2024, we achieved record financial results, advanced major growth projects and declared the largest dividend payment on the ADX, while continuing to capitalize on robust market fundamentals to deliver a total return to shareholders of 19 percent."

ADNOC Gas delivered strong financial results in 2024, reporting a record adjusted net income of $5 billion, up an impressive 13 percent year-on-year, and strong EBITDA growth of 14 percent year-on-year to $8.65 billion, with a high, stable EBITDA margin of 35 percent with free cash flow of $4.58 billion.

The strategic update outlined investments of $15 billion in growth opportunities designed to meet the escalating global demand for natural gas and drive a projected 40 percent increase in EBITDA by 2029 from a 2023 baseline.

This will be achieved through an expected 30 percent increase in the company's gas processing capacity as ADNOC expands its upstream production capacity. The AGM follows the completion of ADNOC's recent marketed offering of 3.1 billion shares in ADNOC Gas the largest share placement ever on the ADX and the largest secondary offering in the UAE at $2.84 billion. As a result of the completed offering, ADNOC Gas has expanded its shareholder base and anticipates potential inclusion in the MSCI and FTSE indices as early as this year.

Underlining its stability and security, ADCB's high investment grade ratings support a favourable cost of capital as the bank implements a new strategy to sustain its velocity of growth, with a target of doubling net profit to AED 20 billion within five years.

In a research update, S&P said: "Sound earnings generation and high capital retention still underpin ADCB's capitalisation, which we view as a key rating strength."

The rating agency added: "We believe the bank's asset quality will continue to benefit from the strengthening of its risk management culture and control framework over the past four years. We view these improvements, along with a more contained risk appetite, as enduring and therefore positioning the Bank to better navigate economic cycles."

ADCB's strong market position has driven significant balance sheet expansion, with assets increasing 59% since the end of 2020 to surpass AED 650 billion in 2024. Net loans have expanded at 10% CAGR, accompanied by a strategic rebalancing of the loan book, which has seen exposure to governmentrelated entities (GREs) increase to 27% of gross loans from 21% in 2020. Meanwhile, ADCB's strong franchise has attracted significant deposit inflows at 14% CAGR since 2020.

ABU DHABI / WAM

The UAE has reaffirmed its commitment to supporting an open, rulesbased trading system that promotes sustainable economic development, employment, industrialisation, and shared prosperity during a meeting of the G20 Trade and Investment Working Group.

Participating in the session as a specially invited guest of South Africa, who holds the G20 presidency for 2025, the UAE delegation also expressed its support for the integration of developing economies into global supply chains, the importance of achieving a just green transition and the ongoing reform of the World Trade Organisation (WTO) as a means of upholding a free, fair, and inclusive multilateral trading system. The UAE delegation was headed by Juma Al Kait, Assistant Under-Secretary for International Trade Affairs at the Ministry of Economy, and included representatives of the Ministry of the Economy and the Ministry of Investment.

In his remarks to the working group, Juma Al Kait said the UAE trade agenda is closely aligned with the priorities of South Africa's presidency, in particular the structural transformation of the African continent and the development of African Continental Free Trade Area.

The UAE, he said, has now concluded Comprehensive Economic Partnership Agreements with five African nations — Kenya, Central African Republic, Congo-Brazzaville, Morocco and Mauritius — and has opened discussions with many more to expand the benefits of free trade and boost investment in key sectors.

Al Kait also underlined the UAE's investment into regional value chains, citing the UAE's Africa Economic Corridor Strategy, which aims to increase trade by supporting the development of new logistics hubs across Sub-Saharan Africa, and the contribution of Abu Dhabi Ports and DP World to the development of integrated logistics solutions for African businesses.

This is in addition to the UAE's support for green industrialisation, which is another core focus of South Africa's G20 presidency. He noted the UAE's significant investments in renewable energy ventures, with commitments of more than US$16.8 billion across 70 countries, the majority of them in the developing world.

In the final session, the UAE highlighted the importance of ensuring the WTO is able to fulfil its mandate as the custodian of the global trading system, especially in its ability to address economic asymmetries.

Abu Dhabi Biobank unveils private cord blood banking services

The initiative offers expectant families an affordable, accessible and local way to preserve their newborns' stem cells

ABU DHABI / WAM

Abu Dhabi Biobank has launched private cord blood banking services, offering expectant families with an affordable, accessible and local way to preserve their newborns' stem cells.

With over 60,000 transplants performed globally using stem cells from umbilical cord blood, the demand for life-saving treatment using cord blood banking is growing. However, many families are having to go without the benefits of private cord blood banking due to high cost and limited local storage options.

Abu Dhabi Biobank is changing this, offering families cord blood banking at half the cost than current market rates and teaming up with leading and fully licenced healthcare facilities in Abu Dhabi, including M42's Danat Al Emarat Women's and Children Hospital, and other facilities like Corniche Hospital and Kanad Hospital.

In addition, rather than cord blood samples being shipped and kept abroad, Abu Dhabi Biobank will be preserving samples locally, safely and securely for up to 30 years at its cord blood banking facility in Masdar City, equipped with state-of-the-art automated technology and large capacity biobanking infrastructure. This long-term storage capability guarantees that stem cells remain viable for therapeutic applications and can be accessed from anywhere in the world
