AD Ports expands operations in Angola with key agreements

The group has signed five deals with Angolan public- and private-sector partners to explore wider cooperation in maritime services, logistics

ABU DHABI / WAM

AD Ports Group on Tuesday announced the signing of an agreement to develop a digital Single Logistics Trade Window solution for Angola's trade regulator - Agência Reguladora de Certificação de Carga e Logística de Angola (ARCCLA), and the purchase of 30 new trucks and 45 new trailers with an approximate value of US$6 million for its Angolan logistics business, Noatum Unicargas Logistics.

The Group has also signed five preliminary agreements with Angolan public- and private-sector partners to explore wider cooperation in maritime services, cabotage, training, logistics, airport cargo handling services, and healthcare. The agreements were signed by Ricardo Viegas de Abreu, Minister of Transport of the Republic of Angola, and Mohamed Eidha Al Menhali, Regional CEO - AD Ports Group.

The increase in the Group's activities in Angola, where it has already committed to investing US$250 million through 2026 to redevelop and expand Noatum Ports Luanda Terminal, the multipurpose terminal facility at the country's largest port, came six months after the Group commenced operations in Angola in January.

Ricardo Viegas de Abreu said, "We welcome this opportunity to strengthen our productive relationship with AD Ports Group, a key investor in Angola and a strategic partner in our national transformation. By modernising and developing our maritime and commercial infrastructure, AD Ports Group and the Ministry of Transport are enhancing trade in the region and solidifying Angola's position as a true driver of economic and social development."
