EMSTEEL's steel division reported revenues of AED1.90 billion for Q1 and generated EBITDA of AED403 million, representing a 79 percent YoY increase.

EMSTEEL's cement division recorded revenue of AED269 million in Q1 2026, representing a 31 percent YoY increase, with EBITDA of AED80 million, up 100 percent YoY.

In Q1, EMSTEEL recorded total steel sales volumes, comprising finished steel products and billets, of 768,000 tonnes, representing a 6 percent YoY decline. The decrease was partially attributable to a planned

Eng. Saeed Ghumran Al Reameithi, Group Chief Executive Officer of EMSTEEL, said the company had delivered a strong start to 2026, with resilient revenues and significantly improved profitability driven by cost optimisation and operational efficiency.

EAD values the role of camel owners and breeders for their cooperation and commitment to adhering to the environmental requirements during camel grazing activities

Environment Agency – Abu Dhabi announces emirate’s 2026 grazing season to run exceptionally from 22 April until 15 October

The camel grazing season is implemented within the framework of Law No. (11) of 2020 regarding the regulation of grazing in Abu Dhabi emirate

ABU DHABI / GULF TIME

Under the directives of His Highness Sheikh Hamdan bin Zayed Al Nahyan, Ruler’s Representative in Al Dhafra Region and Chairman of the Board of Directors of the Environment Agency – Abu Dhabi (EAD), the agency has announced the start of the 2026 camel grazing season in the emirate, exceptionally this year from 22 April until 15 October.

The camel grazing season is implemented within the framework of Law No. (11) of 2020 regarding the regulation of grazing in Abu Dhabi emirate. EAD is responsible for implementing this law, which aims to organise traditional grazing practices to protect natural

Licence holders are required to graze in open wilderness areas and to stay at least two kilometres away from nature reserves, forests, residential and private areas, military and petroleum facilities, roads, and all prohibited areas pastures in coordination with relevant authorities, ensuring the use of natural resources in accordance with the highest environmental sustainability standards. This ensures that the needs of the local community are met and camel grazing is preserved as an inherited traditional practice in the emirate, in an environmentally balanced manner. To facilitate the process, eligible applicants may obtain a grazing licence instantly through the TAMM platform. The fee for a new licence is AED250, while the renewal fee is AED150.

Based on the Executive Regulations of the aforementioned law, to obtain a camel grazing licence, the applicant must be a UAE National and employ a ranger who is at least 18 years old for the camels. The applicant must also hold a valid livestock inventory certificate approved by the Abu Dhabi Agriculture and Food Safety Authority (ADAFSA).

Licence holders are required to graze in open wilderness areas and to stay at least two kilometres away from nature reserves, forests, residential and private areas, military and petroleum facilities, roads, and all prohibited areas. They are also required not to leave camels grazing without the supervision of a ranger and to adhere to the grazing period specified in the licence.

Camel owners and breeders who hold a grazing licence are prohibited from transferring the licence to another person. They must also adhere to a number of environmental requirements to safeguard pastureland, including not introducing invasive plants, animals, or any harmful substances into grazing areas. It is prohibited to uproot, burn, cut, collect, or damage vegetation in any form. Approaching water well sites, or using bicycles, cars, or any type of vehicle or machinery that negatively impacts the vegetation cover, is also prohibited, in order to protect the environment and prevent damage to biodiversity. Leaving any waste or tools in grazing areas is also prohibited, ensuring the protection and sustainability of Abu Dhabi’s environment.

EAD values the role of camel owners and breeders for their cooperation and commitment to adhering to the environmental requirements during camel grazing activities, which contributes to achieving the sustainability of vegetation cover in natural pastures and strengthens the implementation of the Grazing Regulation Law in the emirate.

Fujairah Environment Authority (FEA) Releases Rehabilitated Sea Turtles into the Indian Ocean at Naāma Beach Villas & Spa to Monitor Behaviour & Migratory Patterns

FUJAIRAH / GULF TIME

The Fujairah Environment Authority (FEA), in cooperation with the Fujairah Research Centre, has released three green sea turtles (Chelonia mydas) of varying sizes and ages back into their natural habitats, following their rescue in Fujairah by the Joint Marine Biodiversity Team — formed by the Fujairah Environment Authority and the Fujairah Research Centre — and their subsequent rehabilitation at the Fujairah Research Centre’s laboratories. The release took place in the morning during calm and low tides on the pristine beach of Naāma Beach Villas & Spa. The three green sea turtles were named during the release ceremony and given the names Emirates, Al Aqah and Naāma before their release from the beach as they waded into the soft tidal waves, before taking a breath and diving beneath the soft swell.

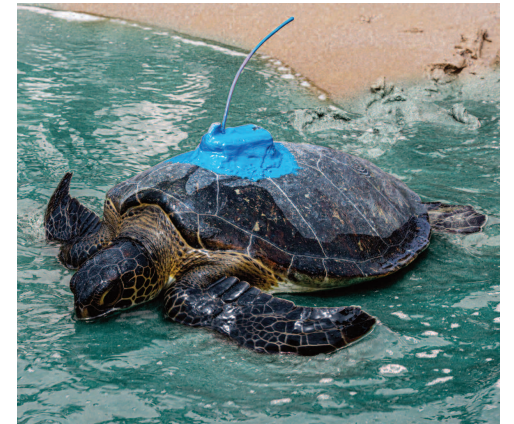

The initiative forms part of a joint research project, funded by Atlantis The Palm Group, to study turtle behaviour and track migration patterns. Tracking sensors have been fitted to the released turtles to monitor their routes through the marine environment and identify their preferred nesting grounds — data that will underpin evidence-based conservation strategies and scientific research into the behavioural dynamics of endangered species within their natural habitats.

The project aims to generate high-quality data in support of marine conservation and habitat restoration, as part of an integrated framework and strategic plan for Fujairah’s marine environment. The plan begins with the rehabilitation of sea turtle sites through coral reef cultivation, undertaken in partnership with leading international organisations and with the participation of volunteers from the local community, in a manner that achieves ecological balance and safeguards the region’s unique marine life.

Of the world’s seven remaining sea turtle species, five are found in the waters of the United Arab Emirates.

Environment Agency – Abu Dhabi reports significant reduction in plastic consumption across emirate

The findings show a positive response to adoption of consumer behaviours aligned with national goals to cut plastic pollution

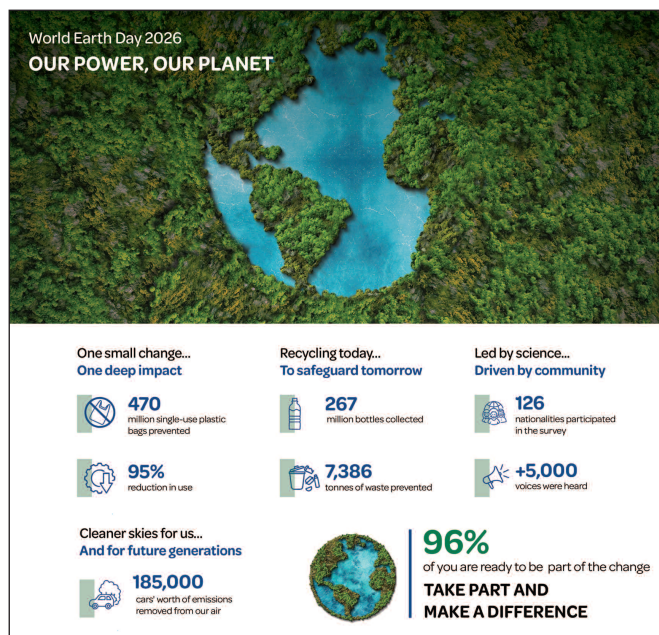

ABU DHABI / GULF TIME

The Environment Agency – Abu Dhabi (EAD) has revealed the results of a public opinion survey on the emirate’s single-use plastics policy, launched by EAD in 2020 as a strategic step to promote environmental sustainability and reduce the negative effects of excessive plastic consumption.

As one of the emirate’s pioneering initiatives launched to positively impact the whole of the UAE, the policy set an example that contributed to the national ban and regulation of plastic products at the federal level. The agency also revealed significant results achieved since the policy’s launch, including: preventing the consumption of over 470 million single-use plastic bags, and reducing the number of bags at major retail outlets by up to 95 per cent. Additionally, approximately 267 million plastic bottles were collected either directly from homes or through more than 170 smart recycling machines located throughout the emirate.

All of this helped prevent 7,386 tonnes of plastic from being diverted to landfill. The emissions avoided are estimated to be equivalent to removing 185,000 fuel-powered vehicles from the road for one year.

Continuing this approach, in line with the national plastic ban

EAD confirmed that the findings reflect the community’s commitment to the goals of the federal ban, contribute to establishing a culture of responsible consumption among different segments of society, and enhance Abu Dhabi’s leading position in the country’s efforts to reduce the use of plastic materials and protect the environment. These efforts ensure a more sustainable future for generations to come implemented at the beginning of this year and in preparation for developing EAD’s work to regulate the trade of single-use products, the agency conducted a survey. The results showed a significant increase in public awareness of the negative environmental impact of plastics. Over 5,000 people from 126 nationalities participated in the survey, with 96 per cent of respondents saying they were aware of the risks plastic poses to the environment. Furthermore, 96 per cent indicated their personal commitment to reducing plastic product use by adopting simple, sustainable daily practices, reflecting a positive shift in societal behaviour towards more responsible consumption patterns.

This shift was not limited to

“The results of the survey reflect the success of the agency’s efforts to raise environmental awareness among members of the community and confirm their commitment to adopting more sustainable consumption habits. The community’s knowledge of the environmental and health risks associated with plastics, and its positive response to adopted policies, motivates us to continue developing environmental programmes and initiatives the environmental aspect alone; it extended to the health dimension as well. 95 per cent of respondents confirmed their awareness of the health risks associated with using plastic products, reinforcing the trend toward adopting safer consumer choices. Participants also praised the clarity of the agency’s awareness messages, with 89 per cent expressing satisfaction with the campaigns and their effectiveness in raising public awareness.

Her Excellency Dr Shaikha Salem Al Dhaheri, Secretary General of the EAD, said: “The results of this survey reflect the success of the agency’s efforts to raise environmental awareness among members of the community and confirm their commitment to adopting more sustainable consumption habits. The community’s knowledge of the environmental and health risks associated with plastics, and its positive response to adopted policies, motivates us to continue developing environmental programmes and initiatives. This is in line with Abu Dhabi’s sustainability goals. These results represent an important basis for reviewing policies, developing future plans, enhancing the effectiveness of the single-use plastics policy, supporting innovation in environmentally friendly alternatives and establishing sustainability practices at the community level.”

On both the economic and governance fronts, the survey revealed clear public support for environmentally friendly alternatives. 89 per cent of respondents considered the prices of alternative bags reasonable, while 88 per cent expressed support for directing revenue from bag fees towards environmental protection projects, reflecting a positive alignment between sustainability and financial responsibility. Furthermore, 95 per cent of those surveyed indicated that current procedures and laws are effective, affirming their confidence in the agency’s decisions and the credibility of its adopted policies.

These results reinforce recent national efforts, most notably the federal government’s decision to ban single-use plastics, which embodies the country’s commitment to sustainability and protecting the environment from the effects of excessive plastic use.

The survey findings indicate a positive public response to this decision and to the adoption of consumer behaviours aligned with national goals to reduce plastic pollution. 93 per cent of participants expressed their overall satisfaction with the survey. EAD confirmed that the findings reflect the community’s commitment to the goals of the federal ban, contribute to establishing a culture of responsible consumption among different segments of society, and enhance Abu Dhabi’s leading position in the country’s efforts to reduce the use of plastic materials and protect the environment. These efforts ensure a more sustainable future for generations to come.
