DUBAI/WAM

Emirates has reached a defining milestone in its ambitious multi-billion dollar retrofit programme with the successful reconfiguration of its first two-class A380 aircraft.

The newly refurbished aircraft (A6-EUX) has taken to the skies operating as EK 39/40 between Dubai and Birmingham, featuring sparkling new interiors with Emirates' latest products in three cabin classes: 76 Business Class seats, 56 Premium Economy Seats, and 437 Economy Class seats.

This is the first of 15 two-class A380 aircraft in its fleet that Emirates will renovate as part of its commitment to offer customers a consistently superior experience in the sky.

Managed entirely in-house by Emirates Engineering in Dubai, the retrofit programme has so far completed work on 95 Emirates aircraft, including 42 Airbus A380s and 53 Boeing 777s, representing more than one-third of Emirates' current fleet of aircraft.

vation experience every time they choose to travel with us. To this end, our engineering team has been working continuously and at pace in close collaboration with an ecosystem of partners and suppliers to meticulously refresh and integrate the best-in-class products to each aircraft in the programme.

"Our retrofit programme has raised the bar at every step, in terms of complexity, scale and detailed craftsmanship. The reconfiguration of our two-class A380 into three-class layout that brings our popular Premium Economy seating onto the upper deck illustrates the extensive capabilities of our team."

As part of the retrofit, Emirates' award-winning Premium Economy cabin will be featured, for the first time, in the upper deck of the A380.

Featuring spacious leather seats with generous recline in a 2-3-2 configuration, customers can enjoy features including full leg and footrests, 6-way adjustable headrests, built-in charging ports, side cocktail tables, as well as elevated dining experiences and an unmatched entertainment system via a 13.3-inch personal screen. During the retrofit, the entire cabin interior of A6-EUX was taken apart, refreshed and put back together with precision.

The Emirates Engineering team had to carry out extensive modifications to the upper deck of the A380 aircraft by removing 120 Economy Class seats to accommodate 56 Premium Economy and an additional 18 Business Class seats.

To support this change in configuration, the team had to undertake structural work to remove, upgrade and reposition galley modules, storage areas, overhead bins, partitions and other cabin features, along with associated changes to the electrical and plumbing systems in the aircraft.

Gordian Capital receives approval to establish branch at DIFC

DUBAI/WAM

Global investor services group IQ-EQ on Wednesday announced that its subsidiary Gordian Capital (Gordian) has achieved regulatory approval to expand its institutional cross-border fund platform and fund solutions offering into Dubai from its new office at Dubai International Financial Centre (DIFC).

The business has been granted a licence by the Dubai Financial Services Authority (DFSA) to offer a comprehensive suite of institutional fund services, within or from DIFC.

The services are managing a collective investment fund, advising on financial products, arranging custody, arranging deals in investments, and managing assets.

It has also been granted an endorsement to its licence to use a fund platform.

This licence will serve experienced investment professionals who require institutional, regulated, physical and operational fund infrastructure, with the Gordian team handling the business and operational management of each fund, freeing clients to concentrate on investing. Leveraging its broader expertise, the team also anticipates active involvement in fund structuring and in facilitating capital flows from the region into global opportunities.

With a dominant presence in Asia-Pacific (APAC), the news sees the firm expand its cross-jurisdictional capabilities for its predominantly international client base. Gordian stands as APAC's first and largest institutional cross-border fund platform and fund solutions provider, with offices in Singapore, Tokyo, Hong Kong, Shanghai, Melbourne, and now Dubai.

The firm was acquired by IQ-EQ in July 2025, enabling the group to offer regulated market entry into APAC on top of its existing regulated fund platforms in France, Luxembourg, Ireland and the UK — as well as enhanced fund structuring and operational capabilities.

Expansion of this offering into the Middle East is a key part of IQ-EQ and Gordian's strategic growth plans and the achievement of the DFSA licence further cements IQ-EQ's position as the deepest and broadest provider of regulated market entry offerings in the industry, across APAC and EMEA.

Since 2005, Gordian has launched over 115 funds across both private and public strategies and currently manages US$22 billion.

Its clients include global institutional asset managers, multi-strategy platforms, family offices, hedge funds and corporates across private equity, real estate, venture capital, infrastructure, hedge and long-only strategies.

"When our clients go cross-border, regionally and/or globally, it can have its challenges — in terms of speed to market and cost as well as meeting rigorous initial and ongoing operational and regulatory standards," said Mark Voumard, Gordian founder and now Managing Director and Head of Fund Platform and Solutions, Asia and Middle East at IQ-EQ.
