NYU Abu Dhabi develops new algorithm to improve climate predictions

The researchers propose Random Analogue Predictor as a benchmark for both physics-based and AI-driven models

ABU DHABI / WAM

Researchers at the Mubadala Arabian Centre for Climate and Environmental Sciences (ACCCESS) at NYU Abu Dhabi have developed a new algorithm that can forecast Arctic sea ice extent up to nine months in advance, offering a new way to anticipate changes in the Arctic that can affect the global climate system.

Called the Random Analogue Predictor (RAP), the algorithm uses historical sea ice data to identify past patterns that resemble current conditions and uses what happened next to generate possible future forecasts. RAP also provides an estimate of uncertainty for each forecast.

The researchers found that RAP produced forecasts with a level of skill comparable to models used by the Sea Ice Prediction Network (SIPN). For September sea ice extent, its forecast error was comparable to that of 34 models used for seasonal forecasting—WAM

Arctic sea ice plays an important role in the global climate system because it reflects solar energy back into space, while the darker ocean absorbs it. Changes in Arctic sea ice can also influence atmospheric and oceanic patterns far beyond the region, making the ability to forecast these changes in advance valuable for better understanding wider climate impacts.

“Forecasting Arctic sea ice several months ahead is a difficult problem, and an increasingly important one as the Arctic continues to change,” said Francesco Paparella, inaugural director of Mubadala ACCCESS at NYU Abu Dhabi and senior author of the study. “Our approach is deliberately simple, but it performs competitively with much more complex forecasting models. Importantly, it also provides an estimate of its own uncertainty, making it a useful and transparent benchmark for evaluating future forecasting methods.”

The researchers found that RAP produced forecasts with a level of skill comparable to models used by the Sea Ice Prediction Network (SIPN). For September sea ice extent, its forecast error was comparable to that of 34 models used for seasonal forecasting.

Unlike physics-based models, which simulate the atmosphere, ocean and sea ice, RAP uses only the historical record of Arctic sea ice extent. By identifying similar past conditions, it generates an ensemble of possible forecasts. The spread of these forecasts provides an estimate of uncertainty, allowing users to assess how much confidence to place in a prediction.

The researchers propose RAP as a benchmark for both physics-based and AI-driven models. Its simplicity and interpretability provide a clear reference point for assessing more complex approaches.

ABU DHABI / WAM

Dr. Tareq Ahmed Al Ameri, Acting Director-General of the Abu Dhabi Agriculture and Food Safety Authority (ADAFSA), said Abu Dhabi is moving rapidly towards establishing a global model for future agriculture based on innovation, advanced technologies and efficient resource use to strengthen food security and economic Bringing a touch of Mediterranean romance to the Maldives, the island dresses for the season in ceramic-tile patterns tracing bar fronts and linens, lemons resting beside woven baskets, and fairy lights strung low between the palms as dusk settles slow and golden over the water

La Dolce Vita: Eri Maldives Marks Its First Festive Season with the Sweet Rhythm of Island Living

This December, Eri welcomes guests for its debut festive season since opening, a programme built around La Dolce Vita, running from 22 December to 7 January — an ode to the sweet rhythm of island living

DUBAI / GULF TIME

There is a way to close out the year that isn't a race to the finish line, but a soft landing into the one ahead. That's the one Eri Maldives is building this December.

This December, Eri welcomes guests for its debut festive season since opening, a programme built around La Dolce Vita, running from 22 December to 7 January — an ode to the sweet rhythm of island living. Bringing a touch of Mediterranean romance to the Maldives, the island dresses for the season in ceramic-tile patterns tracing bar fronts and linens, lemons resting beside woven baskets, and fairy lights strung low between the palms as dusk settles slow and golden over the water.

For those who want the island take, Secrets of the Sea storytelling nights are where the resort's marine expert share tales gathered from surrounding waters, and Eri's growing turtle community, with a Great Reef Trivia to put all that listening to the test

WHERE THE SEASON LIVES

The season opens with The Christmas Glow, as Eri's tree is lit for the first time beneath an amber horizon at sunset, carols rising over the tide, paired with canapés and cocktails. Travellers can also turn icing and imagination into a miniature seaside cottage at a festive gingerbread-house decorating workshop, best enjoyed on the spot.

Christmas morning brings Santa's surprise entrance, followed by an unhurried lunch of festive tropical favourites at the Christmas Banquet at Soul

Kitchen. Those looking to make new friends can catch up over beach games and a Zumba breakout at the first 'Eri-lympics' on 29 December.

New Year celebrations carry that same spirit into its own send-off, unfolding in layers: starting with a treasure hunt that invites guests to discover scenic pockets of the island, with clues leading them from one corner to the next, before the evening settles into an epic gala dinner with live cooking stations turning the night into a feast that keeps giving. As midnight nears, the Seaside Soirée takes over with a playful costume competition. DJ beats signal the start of the year-end beach party, gathering everyone under the stars at Sip & Dip Beachfront as the countdown begins, with a firework show lighting up the water as the final seconds tick down and the year turns over.

The morning after is reserved for rest, with New Year Reset Brunch that asks nothing more than a slow start with comforting bites, good coffee. An invitation to test the waters awaits in the afternoon, where guests are encouraged to test the waters at group water sport taster sessions for a First Ride of the Year - the perfect spontaneous start to set the tone for a year with endless possibilities.

Travellers celebrating Orthodox Christmas can mark the occasion with an intimate shore-side dinner and lunch in early January, rounding off the season with a toast with loved ones close by.

FLAVOURS WITHOUT RUSH

Foodies can look forward to a seasonal Coastal Feast, featuring Maldivian reef lobster pulled straight off the grill and charred fish dishes, or learn the secrets of Maldivian staple recipes in the hands-on The Island Kitchen cooking class.

Elsewhere, the Maldivian Village becomes a place to wander rather than simply pass through. Guests are invited to join a Maldivian Tea Experience on the afternoon of 30 December, while a pop-up market takes over for one evening only on 5 January, with local crafts and street foods spilling into the square.

Throughout the period, a run of daily sundowners warms the festive spirit into the evenings, with themed drinks and DJ sets rotating from Island Afterglow to Sunset Soirée.

BENEATH THE SURFACE

Throughout the season, guests can sit-in on educational talks to learn about ocean ecology and geology, and take part in scenic sunset fishing adventures to head out into the open water, with the Battle of the Big Catch to dial up friendly competition before the light runs out.

For those who want the island take, Secrets of the Sea storytelling nights are where the resort's marine expert share tales gathered from surrounding waters, and Eri's growing turtle community, with a Great Reef Trivia to put all that listening to the test.

SPACE FOR STILLNESS

As part of the period's seasonal specials, Escape Spa will be unveiling a seasonal ritual, Escape Journey, with a cocoa coffee sugar scrub that softens the skin, followed by a full-body massage that loosens up muscle tension and knots.

For the best value, book Studios from £179/night and Beach Villas from £241/night on Full Board with the resort and explore current offers at <https://erimaldives.com/offers/>.

HIGHLANDER RAS AL KHAIMAH LAUNCHES A SHORTER, STEEPER SUMMIT CHALLENGE THIS NOVEMBER

RAS AL KHAIMAH / WAM

HIGHLANDER – the Middle East's premier long-distance hiking event returns to Ras Al Khaimah on 21–22 November 2026 - introducing its all-new experience - the HIGHLANDER Summit Series. Coming to the UAE for the first time, the Summit Series is a shorter, steeper hiking experience through the wadis, mountain villages and trails below Jebel Yabana, designed for adventurers ready to push higher and closer to the summits.

Bringing together a diverse global community of adventurers, HIGHLANDER Ras Al Khaimah starts and finishes at Bear Grylls Adventure Camp. The route traverses the rugged Hajar Mountains around Jebel Jais, with a stronger focus on elevation, challenging terrain and local mountain communities.

Founded in 2017 by a group of hiking enthusiasts trailblazing across the Velebit mountain range in Croatia, HIGHLANDER has grown into the world's leading long-distance hiking event series, with more than 30 events taking place every year in over 20 countries worldwide. Created to deliver premium hiking experiences and to unite those who love the great outdoors, HIGHLANDER offers adventures ranging from one to five days, each set against breathtaking mountain landscapes and leaving hikers with stories to take home, inspire others and start planning their next trip.

The HIGHLANDER Summit Series offers a new experience, but it is not a race. Although the routes are shorter than HIGHLANDER's traditional multi-day, cross-mountain and descents make them equally demanding. Designed to take hikers higher and closer to the summits, each route challenges participants physically and mentally, leaving them with a renewed appreciation for nature and Ras Al Khaimah's mountains. Two formats are available, open to hikers aged 18 and above, and can be chosen based on experience and fitness level:

HIGHLANDER 1DAY: 7km on Sunday 22 November 2026, with 400m of elevation gain and loss and a maximum altitude of 600m.

HIGHLANDER 2DAY: approximately 15km over Saturday and Sunday, 21–22 November 2026, with approximately 845m of elevation gain, 812 m of elevation loss and a maximum altitude of approximately 1,190m, including an overnight camp at approximately 1,050m.

The 1DAY route is a loop from Wadi Khammed, entering through a canyon resembling a white wadi with high rock walls.
